

Pentegra Employees Volunteer for Project Linus

White Plains, NY, November 22, 2017

On November 20, over 40 employees from Pentegra's White Plains headquarters, and Shelton, CT satellite office, volunteered to make no-sew cozy fleece blankets for Project Linus. The Project Linus non-profit organization provides a sense of security, warmth and comfort to children who are seriously ill, traumatized, or otherwise in need through the gift of a new, handmade blankets created by volunteer "blanketeers."

According to John Pinto, President and CEO of Pentegra, "It was a special day for us – particularly during Thanksgiving week -- to devote the day to creating these handmade blankets that will make a difference for a child. Project Linus is an extraordinary charity and we are proud to support them. We also want to thank Volunteer New York, who made this partnership possible."
